Words from the Admiral: Richard Gurnon

Dear Members of the Class of 2012,

I am very proud of you.

These past four (or more) years have likely been some of the most difficult and demanding of your lives - certainly much more challenging than the members of the class of 2012 who chose "ordinary" colleges and universities. Your days have been filled with hard science and math coursework, long hours in labs, internships/co-ops/commercial shipping/sea terms, and they were also layered with regimental obligations including leadership responsibilities; and on weekends, outside jobs and/or varsity athletics. You often started school before your peers in the fall and finished long after they were out in the spring. You started before your peers in the morning and labored long after they went to bed in the evening.

The fact that the Massachusetts Maritime Academy has the highest graduation rate of any public college in Massachusetts is a testament to your stamina, drive, dedication and work ethic. Congratulations!

I have watched you grow from wide-eyed college freshmen, uncertain of yourself and the future, into confident, poised professionals eager to seek additional responsibilities and opportunities in the many outside industries that we serve. This yearbook will show the photographic record of the transformation that has occurred in each of you and it is truly something amazing to witness. The maturation from novice to professional is what provides me with the greatest joy of my job and I know I speak for all of the 250 full time employees of the college when I say we are all pleased and proud to work at a place that turns out graduates of such quality.

As you leave us in your wake, always remember the lessons you learned here at the biggest and best maritime college in America. Because of our structure, most of those lessons were learned from books, quizzes and tests. Some have been taught to you through mnemonics; "red, right, returning" or "righty, tighty". Others through repetition; "lead by example", "look out for your shipmates", "you're responsible for your own entertainment" or "last person". Some were learned the hard way, with the subsequent extra duty or restrictions to accompany the lesson. But the most important lesson is this: "There's no place like home." Wherever you travel, remember that this was your home for an important part of your formative years and we will always hold a special place in our hearts for you for when you return.

Rick Gurnon
President, MMA
RADM, USMS

Words from your Regimental Commander : Jack Gomes

Class of 2012,

Just four years ago we were introduced for the first time as a class, in June it will be a bittersweet end to what we have worked so hard for while at Massachusetts Maritime Academy. Our time together has been challenging but through these periods we all have made lasting ties to each other that will remain with us forever. Whether you will sail or work ashore, we share a common bond of a Massachusetts Maritime Academy graduate.

As you move onward with your lives, look forward to continuing to push the limits of the Maritime industry and to the continuation of our great Academy. Our graduates succeed because of the values that are instilled in us. Use a daily routine of persistence and dedication and let these principles carry over into your professional careers. I encourage you to break new barriers and take on challenges and remember what we have learned throughout our time at MMA, that hard work can take you anywhere in life, and if you continue to apply this tactic you will achieve many things that you want to attain.

Fair winds and following seas,

1/C Jack Gomes

Words from your Company Commanders:

1/C Matthew Miles: It has been a pleasure working with everyone over the past few years and an honor to work with my junior and senior staff.Good luck after graduation and I look forward to seeing you in the future.

"The test of success is not what you do when your on top. Success is how high you bounce when you hit the bottom"
-General George S. Patton-

1/C Sean Auntues: This experience has taught me so much about life and myself. It was an honor to serve as 2nd Company Commander. Good luck to everyone I have ever crossed paths with and be the best you can be.

1/C Julie Shebroe: These past four years have been a learning experience for us all; a time to meet new people, form new relationships, and ultimately grow into young adults ready to face life as it unfolds in front of us. I would not be the person I am today without the amazing people I have met and the strong friendships I have made. So a big thank you to all I have encountered these past four years, and good luck to all in your future endeavors, you all deserve the best of the best!

1/C Connor Whearty: The 4th Co staff would like to thank the cadets in 4th Company for making it a great year. As a company we exceled within the regiment and it was due to the awesome teamwork of the cadets. Good luck next year.

“Never tell people how to do things. Tell them what to do and they will surprise you with their ingenuity.”
- George Patton

1/C Joseph Scolastico: I would like to thank my entire staff for a great year. I would not have been able to complete the task at hand without your help and guidance. I wish you all the best of luck and smooth sailing

"Our lives begin to end the day we become silent about things that matter"
- Martin Luther King

1/C Joshua Roberts: I want to wish the class of 2012 the best in their future endeavor s. It was a pleasure and a privilege working with my whole staff and great experience leading the freshmen throughout the year. The one thing we all need to remember is to continue to work hard and to make tomorrow better than today.

1/C Zachary Dias: It is unbelievable how far 7th company has come! My first year at the academy was 7th company's first year as a full functioning company. Starting off with 26 freshman in orientation 2008, and a limited staff, we all made it a goal to become larger and better. Now, in 2012, the freshman class in 7th company grew to over two times the amount it was 4 years ago and continues to grow. With increasing numbers, 7th company is able to do more military functions, parades, ceremonies, and funerals for veterans and alumni. All our accomplishments, are due to the dedicated cadet staff, in which I cannot thank you enough. Thanks everyone
